

Certification Program Governance: An Industry Survey

Survey results capture data from nearly 150 professional certification organizations. The report is designed to provide a tool that the industry as a whole can use to set benchmarks, but also to provide a framework by which certifying agencies can measure their own governance. More importantly, the report can be used as a catalyst to a strategic and detailed conversation about the manner in which we train our leaders, communicate with them, and provide them with the tools they need to effectively, and strategically, govern a professional certification body.
